Happy Thanksgiving!

Some have asked what we will do for this day? I and the World Bible School team of 8 preachers will go to a forest nearby and pray and fast from Thursday until Saturday. Join us as we seek the Lord's direction in this ministry.

Culture and beliefs are different around the world. It is interesting to hear about them and wonder about how they got started and what is the real belief of that society about dead people and also about what is the meaning of the physical body that we will leave behind.

As a follow-up letter to the last newsletter, also in Kenya you would never think to cremate someone, number 1. And Secondly, you would never spread their ashes on their home area! Like my aunt did in America, she cremate my uncle and put his ashes in the fruit trees that he loved.

One of our prayer support team did missionary work in Uruguay. This is what they do there. "In Uruguay you only stay in the ground two years. Then they have what's called a reduction ceremony. They dig you up and condense what's left of you and put it in an urn and in one of the walls of the cemetery. That leaves your space open for someone else, which actually belonged to someone before you were in it. "
